DEER HUNTER IS KILLED IN TREE

George March, well known County Merchant, Accidentally Pulls Trigger and Meets Instant Death. Was Deer Hunting.

George March, a well-known resident of Hampton, this county, was instantly killed this morning while hunting deer in Buchanan Valley on what is known as Clay Hill, Franklin township. The tragic death of Mr. March came as a result of the accidental pulling of the trigger on a gun in his own hands, while he was taking his stand in a tree to wait the result of a drive by other members of the camp.

Mr. March was one of a number of men stopping at the home of John Irvin in Buchanan Valley. They started out during the morning for the deer hunt and were taking their stations about ten o'clock when the accident occurred. With Mr. March were Mr. Irvin, Associate Judge W. Howard Dicks and a cousin, Frank March.

The four men were located within a small territory and Mr. George March had climbed a tree in order to get a better lookout on the work of those conducting the drive. After he had gotten in the tree his cousin handed him his gun and all took their places. A few moments later the gun discharged, supposedly through Mr. March changing his position and the trigger catching on a branch of the tree. He screamed "My God" and fell lifeless to the ground some distance below, a hole in his clothing showing where the shot had entered over his left breast. Further examination showed that it had passed through and lodged beneath the right shoulder.

Horried, the other members of the party rushed to his side but he was dead when they got there. His body was taken to the home of Mr. Irvin and his family notified. Mr. March had a great many friends in many sections of the county and his death is one of the most shocking things that has occurred here for many years.

He leaves his wife, a son, Dale, and a daughter, Ruth.

The body will be removed to his home but no arrangements for the funeral have been made.

CASHTOWN

Cashtown—Twelve of our young men known as the "Scout Sharp Shooters" brought in a large buck on Monday. The animal had about thirteen bullet wounds and there arose the question of who should claim the head and hide. The meat was divided but as yet the other matter is in dispute.

The same organization produced the most remarkable hunting story of the season during the week. One morning about nine o'clock a deer was shot in one of its hind legs but not seen again until late in the afternoon. Then several shots were fired and the buck killed. Members of the party say that the fatal bullet first passed through a six inch chestnut tree, then struck the animal's heart and finally lodged under its breast.

G. M. Bucher is putting up a wind pump from where he will force the water to a high point on his farm into a large reservoir and from there to the house and barn. He has a good spring which will give him a fine supply of water. He is also making other improvements on his farm.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stockslager, of Philadelphia, are spending about ten days with their many friends in and around town. Mr. Stockslager will spend some of his time gunning.

Rev. Mr. Hartzell, the Reformed pastor, of this place, preached the Thanksgiving sermon at Flohr's Lutheran church on Thanksgiving day at two o'clock.

The people are getting in their winter wood and having it sawed. Herman Brame last week sawed twenty-six cords in one day with his gasoline engine and made several small "moves."

SERIOUSLY HURT BY DYNAMITE

Aged Man Thawing out Dynamite when it Explodes Inflicting Possibly Fatal Injuries. Many Wounds on Head and Face.

Daniel Baer, an aged farmer of near East Berlin, had his face partially blown off by the explosion of a stick of dynamite which he was thawing out for the purpose of blasting some rock. His injuries are probably fatal. If Mr. Baer lives, it is believed he will be blind. One eye was blown out and the sight of the other probably destroyed.

The accident occurred on Thursday afternoon. The stick of dynamite which he selected to use for the blast was frozen and he attempted to thaw it over a fire which he started for that purpose. He was leaning over the dynamite, examining it, when the explosion took place.

Practically all the skin of his face was blown off. Beside the injuries to his eyes, his nose was torn, his mouth, which seemed to get the direct force of the explosion, was shredded to bits of flesh and his teeth knocked out. The hand with which he was holding the stick had the skin burned from it.

From the character of his injuries. Mr. Baer, who is more than seventy years old, is in great danger of tetanus. Dr. H. B. Hetrick, of Wellsview, dressed the injuries.

AMATEURS IN MELODRAMA

Clear Large Sum of Money for Gettysburg Fire Department. Take Real Tragedy to Show their Ability.

Gettysburg's amateur players essayed melodrama on Thursday evening for the benefit of the Fire Company and succeeded not only artistically, but financially as well, clearing $120 for the treasury of the firemen.

"Tony, the Convict" was the offering and it pleased an audience which almost filled the house. It was an appreciative audience, too, and the keen points of the play were met with ready response from the friends of the players. The play itself is the typical comedy drama with hero, villain, the papers, fair and abused heroine, gun-play, thrilling situations, comedy parts in the hands of the minor characters and, of course, the inevitable love story interwoven.

Calvin Hartman, as "Tony," the hero, and Calvin Gilbert as the deep-dyed, hard hearted, murderous villain, fully sustained their reputations as amateurs of no mean ability and they carried out some of the heavy scenes in the play so effectively that the more susceptible in the audience almost forgot it was only "actin." A few hard to hand fights between these gentlemen were done very effectively—in fact once or twice blows were dealt which allowed the proper party to accomplish a successful "fall" without much difficulty.

Miss Marian Blocher was the heroine sought by Edgar Miller who passed as a social leader. She had a heavier part than has been assigned to her in any previous local talent play and she carried it off with success.

Richard Mishler as the judge and foster father of Lena, the heroine, was very good in his part and Miss Mary Ramer as maid was most acceptable. Miss Lily Dougherty added to her reputation as an amateur "actress" and other parts were well taken by Mrs. L. A. Deininger, Earl Stallsmith, Luther McDonnell and Alvin McSherry.

The town orchestra played during the evening and the play was well advertised early in the day by a parade of the band and firemen.

The firemen are very much gratified over the success of the entertainment and are especially grateful to those who took part in the play.

PLAY FOOT BALL IN SNOW STORM

Gettysburg Closes Foot Ball Season by Playing with Rochester on Muddy Field in Blinding Snow Storm.

Gettysburg College closed its foot ball season Thanksgiving Day at Rochester by losing to the University of Rochester 7 to 0. The game was hard-fought throughout and Gettysburg was on the defensive the greater part of the time.

The field was a veritable sea of mud and a heavy snow fell during the first half. Although the condition of the field was conducive to fumbles, many passes were resorted to and very few fell true.

Rochester scored during the second period and came within two feet of the goal line in the final quarter. In the second period Rochester started play from the fifteen-yard line and a series of terrific line plunges by Forsyth brought the ball to the five-yard line. Chesbro carried the ball over and Neary kicked goal.

Hoar, quarter-back, played the stellar game for Gettysburg. He got off some long, low punts and received kicks faultlessly. Poffinberger played well on the defense. Myers, who went in at half, made some neat tackles. Forsyth starred for Rochester and his plunges netted many yards.

The season just closed has been almost a complete failure. Of the ten games played only three were won and none of the victories was particularly creditable. All the important games were lost and most of them by large scores, the Dickinson game alone remaining as a credit to the eleven.

For the unsuccessful season there seems to be no one in particular on whom the blame should be placed. The material with which Coach Phillip worked was, for the most part, raw except for Prep school experience. Many of the men were light and came from widely separated sections so that it was almost like taking new recruits and teaching them the game.

The men worked hard and faithfully under the efficient teaching of Mr. Phillip and those who assisted but the team showed from start to finish that they were green and that it would take practically the entire season to get them into form. They displayed some results of their work in the last three games, outplaying Dickinson though they lost, giving the fine Bucknell aggregation a hard fight and losing to Rochester by only one touchdown. The earlier failures had better be left without comment.

Summary of the season:
Gettysburg 0, Pennsylvania 35
Gettysburg 6, Leb. Valley 0
Gettysburg 6, Ursinus 21
Gettysburg 7, Mt. St. Mary's 0
Gettysburg 0, Penn State 25
Gettysburg 27, Delaware 0
Gettysburg 13, Dickinson 20
Gettysburg 0, Bucknell 37
Gettysburg 0, Rochester 7

Gettysburg 65, Opponents 181

The Gettysburg High School team won from Hanover at the latter place on Thursday by the score of 7 to 6. William Troxell took a forward pass for a long run and the touchdown in the first half and Alex. Buehler kicked the winning goal.

4 DEAD, 54 INJURED IN PENNSY WRECK

Express Goes Down Bank Near Philadelphia

EIGHT CARS TOPPLED OVER

Train Going Fifty Miles an Hour Jumps Track on Bridge and Runs Over Ties.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Four bodies have been recovered from the debris of the Pennsylvania railroad's Cleveland and Cincinnati express, which was wrecked, supposedly by a bridge which sagged half a mile east of Glenloch.

The Pennsylvania railroad issued an official statement denying that the bridge was weak or had caused the wreck. The locomotives jumped from the rails while on the bridge and every coach followed. The train kept on the ties until the chasm had been crossed. Then eight of the coaches, all filled with passengers, rolled down a thirty-foot embankment. The train was going fifty miles an hour at the time.

It is believed that the total number of persons injured was about seventy-five, but in the excitement and hurry of rescue a complete record could not be obtained. The list obtained numbers fifty-four.

There were many who were only slightly hurt, and who continued their way westward on another train. Others were cared for in the homes of farmers who lived near the accident. The seriously hurt were taken to the Chester county hospital in West Chester. The dead:

The accident occurred between Frazer and Glenloch, about twenty-five and a half miles from Philadelphia. Just east of the actual place where the cars toppled over the embankment is the bridge across the Trenton cut-off. At the foot of the north embankment is a spur of the cut-off, on which were standing three loaded coal cars.

Three of the sleepers when they rolled down the embankment struck these cars, and one of them was partly telescoped. All the dead and many of the most seriously injured were found in this car.

The ties and roadbed are torn up for a distance of 200 feet east of that structure, and the ties of the bridge also show that at least some of the cars were off the rails when they tumbled across the chasm.

Notwithstanding an official denial from the railroad that the accident was due to a weak bridge, persons who inspected the structure expressed the belief that the sagging of the bridge was at least in part responsible for the catastrophe.

The crash of the cars as they rolled down the steep incline was followed by screams from the passengers who were penned in the overturned cars. The day coach turned a complete somersault and came to rest with its wheels in the air.

The passengers were thrown violently against the top of the car. Many were unconscious from blows on the head. Others were seriously injured. Some of them crawled painfully to safety through the windows.

Passengers and trainmen who escaped injury ran from their coaches and joined in the work of rescue. Some of the passengers were pinned down by splintered steel. There were several who were not rescued until hours later, when workmen of the railroad arrived with a wrecking train.

Farmers in the vicinity soon were at the scene. They brought axes, hatchets and saws. By the light of lanterns and the headlights which were removed from the locomotives they labored furiously at the wreckage in their work of rescue.

CHARLES G. BENNETT.
Secretary of Senate May Be Elected President Pro Tem.

Noted Prisoner Was Condemned to Die, But For Twelve Years Fought For Life and Liberty.

New York, Nov. 29.—Albert T. Patrick has won his twelve-year fight for life and liberty.

The man who was first condemned to death and then to life imprisonment for the murder in New York on Sept. 28, 1900, of the millionaire, William Marsh Rice, was pardoned, fully and unconditionally, at Albany by Governor Dix.

Patrick spent two years in the Tombs and ten years in Sing Sing prison, nearly half of that time in the death house. When he arrived in New York he was joined by his two daughters and they celebrated his release with a Thanksgiving dinner.

James W. Osborne, who prosecuted Patrick and obtained the conviction, said:

"I never saw any mystery in the case. The jury found Patrick guilty after a fair and impartial trial. Personally I devoted six months to studying the case, and I was satisfied that Patrick had induced Jones to kill this old man Rice for his money."

"Patrick was made the residuary legatee under the will, which has been declared by the courts to be a forgery. He would have received, under its provisions, about $9,000,000."

In a statement accompanying the pardon the governor says:

"There has always been an air of mystery in this important case. Quoting from the minority opinion: 'The atmosphere that surrounded the defendant showed that a fair and impartial trial was impossible.' I trust that Mr. Patrick will devote his energies to a complete vindication of his declared innocence. During the past year I have given much consideration to this case and am convinced that the defendant is entitled to a full pardon."

Arthur C. Train, who was assistant district attorney at the time of the Patrick trial, said that he was amazed at the pardon of Patrick.

"It seems amazing to me," he said, "that Patrick should get off after serving only seven or eight years in prison, when for the forgeries that he committed he could have been sent to jail for life. There never was a case in New York in which forgery and perjury were so overwhelmingly proved as in the Patrick trial. He should be kept in prison for life on those charges alone."

You know that most of the ailments named above come from an out of order stomach; of course you do.

If your food doesn't digest, but lays heavily on your stomach, it has started to ferment.

"For 14 months I was so badly afflicted with Rheumatism that much of the time I was obliged to use a cane in walking. On the recommendation of your druggist in Glen Falls I used one bottle of RHEUMA and THE CANE IS IN THE CORNER NOW. No one could be happier than I am to be rid of the pain, swollen knees, contracting muscles under the knees and badly swollen ankles. When I tell you my weight is 230 pounds you will understand what the use of RHEUMA for Rheumatism means for me. I certainly believe there is no remedy for the disease like RHEUMA."

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF MILITARY COURT

Deny Right of Governor to Name Commission.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 29.—The right of the governor to declare martial law and thereby create a military commission, with power to impose sentence on offenders found guilty, will be brought into question before the supreme court of appeals of West Virginia upon the application of a writ of habeas corpus.

The latter is filed by attorneys of H. F. France and L. A. Mays, recently sentenced by the military court to five years in the penitentiary for a series of alleged offenses during the mine troubles in West Virginia. It is maintained upon constitutional grounds that the military court had no authority to impose the sentences.

The constitutionality of the first martial law proclamation was taken into the circuit court of Marshall county some weeks ago, but the decision of that court is not expected before the middle of December.

LECTURER AVERTS PANIC

Cool Headed Speaker Had Lights Turned On and Audience Dismissed.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 29.—A panic in a moving picture theater was averted by the cleverness of a lecturer who was describing Homer's "Odyssey" to a crowded house.

In the midst of his talk he noticed smoke issuing from a side wall and signalling to the operator, the latter stopped his machine and turned on the lights.

The lecturer, Captain Clark, announced that, owing to a break in the film he would ask the audience to leave while the repairs were being made. Nearly all had left quietly when a woman noticed the flames and uttered a cry of "Fire!"

Those remaining fled precipitately, but no one was hurt. By the time the house was emptied a chemical wagon arrived and the fire was soon extinguished. The blaze started from a defective fuse.

4 POWERS AGREE ON JOINT MEETING

England's Plan to Prevent Big War Accepted.

BOTH SIDES ARE ALERT

Austria and Serbia Continue Preparations For War—Turks Break Their Parole.

London, Nov. 29.—Sir Edward Grey's proposal that the ambassadors of the six great powers, Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia, Austria-Hungary and Italy, should assemble in one of the capitals with the view of emphasizing the points arising out of the Balkan war on which the nations are already in agreement, is understood to have the support of Germany, Russia and France.

The idea is to endeavor to avert the possibility of drift into an alignment of the two groups of powers forming the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente in opposite camps over isolated questions such as caused the tension which existed early last week. It is anticipated that without attempting to reach a detailed settlement of all the problems which will come up for arrangement at the end of the war, the ambassadors will be able to register an agreement in principle on such matters as the future of Albania, the disposition of the islands in the Aegean sea and the opening or closing of the Dardanelles.

For instance, the powers are apparently all ready to recognize Albanian independence and pledge themselves not to seek territorial acquisitions in the Aegean sea.

The Serbian war office is continuing its military preparations on the Austrian frontier in readiness for possible eventualities.

The government has received a denial of the report that the Serbian troops had occupied the port of Durazzo on the Adriatic sea, according to the Belgrade newspapers.

The Turkish fleet, with the exception of the cruiser Hamidieh, is reported by special correspondents in Constantinople to be ready to go out and fight. It is still doubtful, however, whether or not the Ottoman military authorities will agree to allow its use against the Greek fleet, despite the reported intention of the Greeks to transport large forces to Xeros bay, behind the Dardanelles. This move would seem to give the Turkish destroyers the chance for which Turkish naval officers profess to long.

The report of the arrest of 500 Turkish officers and a number of civilians, including Dr. Nazim Bey, the chief organizer of the Committee of Union and Progress, by the Greeks in Salonika is telegraphed to London by a special correspondent.

The arrested men have been deported to Greece. The correspondent says this step by the Greeks was justified because the Turks violated the terms of capitulation, broke their parole and got away in some cases by using fraudulently obtained passports.

The correspondent adds that the importance of this development will be understood when it is realized that the character of the war in Macedonia has changed and that the Greek army is now seriously harassed by numerous guerrilla bands largely composed of liberated soldiers.

The Bulgarian and Turkish plenipotentiaries reassembled at the village of Haghtche, outside the Tchatala lines, to discuss further the terms of the proposed armistice.

A letter received from the front declares there has not yet been any real assault by the Bulgarian besiegers of the fortress of Adrianople. On one occasion a Turkish fort was captured, but shortly afterward the allies were compelled to evacuate it owing to the heavy fire concentrated on it by the Turkish guns. On another occasion an entire Bulgarian battalion was destroyed by the explosion of a land mine, which was fired by the Ottoman defenders.

NEGRO BANDIT CAPTURED

Man Wanted For Outrage Arrested on Cumberland Street Car.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 29.—"Angie" Hardie, aged twenty-five years, the negro school teacher bandit, was arrested on a street car here, after he had eluded posss last Saturday.

Hardie expressed a willingness to return to Romney, W. Va., but feared lynching. He wants to wait in jail in Cumberland until the feeling dies down.

"Angie" Hardie denies that he assaulted any of the four women of the Inskeep household. Mary Heath was beaten into insensibility by French Hardie before he was shot by Inskeep.

When Hardie was brought to the Cumberland police station his wound was dressed. For five days he had roomed the mountains half starved and without surgical attention. He had been shot through the hand by Inskeep with a rifle just before the old man used the shotgun which ended the life of French Hardie.

RITCHIE DEFEATS CHAMPION WOLGAST

Loses on Foul in Sixteenth Round.

San Francisco, Nov. 29.—Through a dense cloud of fog at Daly City a wild and excited throng of fight fans carried from the roped arena their first pugilistic lightweight champion.

Willie Ritchie was hoisted on the shoulders of his supporters and his victory was so unexpected that 7000 spectators made the hills echo with their exulting shouts.

With the sixteenth round having only two seconds to go, Champion Wolgast fouled Ritchie, and the referee was quick to raise the local lad's glove in token of victory.

The disqualification came after Ritchie had floored Wolgast twice. Whether the foul was intentional or not was the theme of discussion among thousands as they left the arena. There was no question, however, about the foul. The fact is Wolgast delivered two low left hand punches to Ritchie's groin, and the action of the referee was the only course to pursue.

Wolgast had the best of the fight up to the critical sixteenth round, but he showed as early as the third round that he had lost his former accurate judgment of distance. In this round he nearly knocked Ritchie through the ropes with a right to the jaw.

Ritchie came up strong in the fifteenth round and astonished the big crowd by outboxing the champion. He landed some punishing stomach punches. In the sixteenth Ritchie rushed Wolgast and landed a fierce right cross to the jaw, which sent Wolgast to the ropes. Again Ritchie whipped his right across and Wolgast went to the floor. He got up groggy and after another right to the jaw he delivered the two fouls that cost him the fight.

EX-SENATOR GORDON DEAD

"The Gentleman From Mississippi" Served Sixty Days in Upper House.

Oklahoma, Miss., Nov. 29.—Former United States Senator James Gordon, "The Gentleman From Mississippi," died here.

Senator Gordon gained national fame in a sixty-day term in the senate chiefly through a brotherly love speech. He was in poor circumstances and was recently appointed game warden for his county.

Gordon fought throughout the Civil War in the Confederate ranks, first as a captain and then as a colonel. He was one of the Confederate leaders suspected of being in the conspiracy with J. Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Lincoln. A reward of $10,000 was offered for his capture, and it is said he escaped arrest and probable death only by the intervention of a Union colonel who had crossed swords with him in a fight in Virginia.

Efforts are being made by the subcommittee of the house appropriations committee to perfect the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, so that it may be introduced early next week.

LOST MUCH OIL

Five Hundred Barrels of Oil Escape Near Littlestown.

A pipe of the Pure Oil Company line which runs through Adams county and the southern part of York county, broke Tuesday morning on the farm of Levi M. Miller, near Sell's Station. A number of workmen from this vicinity and Waynesboro were hurried to the place of the leak, and are repairing the break. It is supposed that at least 500 barrels of oil escaped, running over the fields in that section.

FATAL WRECK

One Killed and Three Injured in Head-on Freight Wreck.

As the result either of an oversight in checking, or a mistake in registering in the register book at Highfield, west bound, last freight No. 203 and east bound regular freight No. 204, met in a head-on collision Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock on the Western Maryland railroad on a curve midway between Pen Mar and the Blue Mount station, killing one man and injuring three.

KILLED—J. D. Burbage, of Hagerstown, fireman on east bound freight.

INJURED—W. A. Eckardt, of Baltimore, engineer on westbound freight; arm broken, cut and bruised.

O. L. Hendrickson, of Hagerstown, engineer on east bound freight; scalded, cut and bruised, probably fatally.

C. L. Swartz, of Baltimore, fireman on west bound freight; cut and badly shaken up.

The injured men were taken early Thursday to the Hagerstown hospital. With the exception of Hendrickson, the injuries of these men are not thought to be serious.

Owing to a curve in the road at the point where the collision occurred, the two trains were upon each other before they could be checked.

The engines crashed together with terrific impact, telescoping their boilers into each other and stacking up cars 203 feet high. Five cars of No. 203 were completely demolished.

Two of them rolled several hundred feet down the mountainside and lodged against trees. The box car attached to the tender of No. 203 was reduced to kindling wood. The tender itself was stacked on top of the locomotive and a box car was stood on end on top of the tender.

Burbage was crushed beneath his engine and died before he could be gotten out. The body was taken to Hagerstown, thence to be shipped to his home in Auburndale, Florida, where his wife and one child survive. Burbage was a young man, had not been in the employ of the company very long and was not well known among his fellow employees.

RIBBON REMNANTS.

Short Lengths of This Make Attractive Holiday Remembrances.

Very dainty powder bags may be made of short lengths of Dresden ribbon fringed at the ends. A bit of chambray is stitched to the under side of the ribbon, and it is with this the powder is put on. Such toilet accessories will be much appreciated by most women.

men and are gifts that are inexpensive yet useful.

Two bits of fancy ribbon thus fringed may be stitched together to make sachet covers.

Such a simple thing as a package of good pins can be placed in an attractive holder. Take a piece of ribbon five inches wide, fold it in half and then fold the edges back on them selves. Make this case a little longer than the paper of pins. Fasten the edges at the corners after fringing them and place a bow of narrow ribbon at each end, allowing for a short ribbon handle. This can be made to match the bureau trimmings and can be hung at the side within convenient reach.

MERE MAN'S CHRISTMAS.

The Offerings That Women Friends May Prepare For Him.

In selecting a gift for a man a girl is limited to articles for his desk, sofa cushions, calendars and bits of embroidery.

A man will like this attractive case for brushes, which is made of very wide ribbon in a novel blue and white and pale green figured design. It is lined with green china silk and is fitted with separate compartments for the different brushes. The back of the case may be made over a frame of cardboard, while the front can be stiffened with canvas. A narrow dark blue and gilt braid ornaments the edges, binding the two sections of the case together and gives body to the flaring bow of ribbon along whose face it is run.

Do not forget a round bag for cologne. A circular disk of stiff cardboard six inches in diameter can be cut and covered with linen. Measure off a strip six inches wide and its long as the circumference of the circle. Sketch some simple design on it, repeating the motifs three times and embroider.

Attach rings to the upper edge and whip on the straight piece after joining at the straight edges. Run ribbon through the rings.

Last Minute Giving.

The only Christmas spirit evolved by last minute preparation is a cynical disgust for a holiday that should be attractive. It is like a worker who says she can work only under pressure. Before long she and the work suffer.

The Christmas List.

Do not think of Christmas giving as compulsory. Examine your list carefully and blue pencil each name that is not necessary. The instant a Christmas gift becomes a burden it is as poison to the Christmas spirit.

The cost of feeding an animal in creases with its weight, but not in direct proportion to its weight.

Hurry all cement work to a finish now, so it will have time to set well before freezing cracks and damages it.

MESSAGE SENT BY MOUNTAIN

Invaluable Lessons There for Those Who Love Nature and Will Calmly Listen.

It is not your highest mountain, always, that is the fittest palace of a god; or that has most mountain sweetness or mountain dignity. One could mention some that have but a thousand feet of stature, physically speaking; and yet, it would be an insult to call them mere hills. There is no savage impatience with them; their breasts are dearer than a mother's. Time was when they towered above the clouds, and were proud Himalayas for immensity; when they were all soaring unapproachable crags; repellent; concerned only with the heavens. But men and mountains drew together, and subtle ties of sympathy were formed. Ages upon ages passed over the peaks, smoothed the jagged rocks, rounded and calmed the brows, filled the chasms, and mantled all with ferns and grasses.

The mighty mother set heather to bloom there, for symbol of the soaring, purple dreams that are within; she strewed them with the gold of her gorge, to say that the immemorial Wisdom, though the stems of it be thorny and your fingers shall bleed before you pick them, has for bloom a yellow and most sunbright gladness. Purple dreamings of unsatisfied aspiration; golden delight of arcane, reverent living truth; green wizardry of the ferns and rushes—it is these things that ray out from the mountains I love and extol. Yes, there are mines there; but they do not penetrate the mountains, except in the merest material sense. It is the gorge and the heather and the bracken, the foxglove and the bluebell, the music and murmur of hidden waters, that proclaim the inward being of the mountains. It is the lone, august, and tender thought, the peace that seeps into the mind there; the compassion that fills the world when night, a blue flower, unfolds her splendor eastward, and the roses and daffodils of the sunset wane in the west—by these one may know the god in the mountain, and not despair for the world. Or when the lark rises from the heather in the morning, it is a word of the mountain message that he is concerned to proclaim.—From the Theosophical Path.

As to Biographies.

The announcement comes from London that a biography of Mr. Lloyd George in four volumes is to be published this autumn. It is the latest manifestation of a curious modern tendency to give to the world biographies of people while they are still alive. A biography used to be regarded as the crown, posthumously awarded to a great man gone past recall, and a record of his deeds for the benefit of succeeding generations. An old man, at the close of a long and interesting life, might beguile the leisurely autumn of his days by inditing his memoirs, and nothing is more fascinating reading than such an autobiography well done. But the modern world is too impatient to wait; it is too impatient even to wait till it is quite certain that a man in the popular eye really deserves a biography at all. We remember, a few years ago, glancing at an "authorized" life and appreciation of Mr. G. K. Chesterton, and it seemed a foolish thing to publish the biography of a writer of thirty-five. It seems also a foolish thing to publish the biography of a statesman of forty-nine. We say this in no disparagement of Mr. Lloyd George, although the four volumes that are to be devoted to him at least suggest comparison with the three volumes in which Lord Morley managed to compress what was most vital in the long life of W. E. Gladstone.

To Perfection.

Some one, referring to a paragraph about there being one thing each of us could do to perfection if we could only find it, says "I wonder! For myself I don't believe it. I do not believe that all have gifts. I think the world is full of singularly stupid people." In answer to this and in my support I can scarcely do better than quote our old friend Emerson. "Do that which is assigned thee and thou canst not hope too much or dare too much. There is, at this moment, there is for me, an utterance bare and grand as that of the colossal chisel of Phidias, or trowel of the Egyptians, or the pen of Moses or Dante, but different from all these."—New York Press.

Dispan Shrinkage.

Race suicide has resulted in one commercial contraction that not even Mr. Roosevelt ever counted on. It has caused dishpans to grow smaller. "Where are the enormous dishpans of yesteryear?" queried a woman shopper. "The kind that you could pile all the dishes used by a family of twelve into at one time?" "They don't make them any more," said the clerk, "because there are no families of twelve. Smaller families mean fewer dishes to wash, and the size of the dishpans has shrunk accordingly."

Constancy.

John D. Archbold is a master of irony. Mr. Archbold, talking to a group of reporters on the Cunard pier in New York, said ironically of a certain politician: "He is noted for his constancy. His constancy, though, suggests the Chinese proverb about the constancy of women."

"A woman's heart," says the Chinese proverb, "is like the moon. It changes continually, but it always has a man in it."

Are you keeping a lot of horses for which you have no special need? Let the other fellow have them at present prices.

See to it that the colt does not become constipated. A small dose of castor oil is a good thing to get the bowels started.

Too often the dairy, poultry and hog work are side lines on the farm. Make them the main line and they will lead you to profit.
